STATESVILLE, N.C. March 16, 2020 – PRNewswire / Kewaunee Scientific Corporation (NASDAQ: KEQU).

The health and safety of our Associates, customers, suppliers and community is of the utmost importance to Kewaunee. In response, we are taking the concerns associated with the coronavirus (COVID-19) extremely seriously and are closely monitoring this rapidly evolving situation. Kewaunee is taking practical and proactive measures intended to protect the well-being of our workforce, while also striving to maintain the same level of quality and customer service that have been our foundation for over 100 years.

“As of today, our manufacturing facilities and offices are operational and we are monitoring the health of our Associates,” said Thomas D. Hull III, Kewaunee's President and Chief Executive Officer. “We have invested in a series of on-site wellness resources over the past four years and have a strong partnership with the local medical community, positioning us well to respond to any changes in Associates’ well-being. Further, we remain focused on maintaining the ability of our manufacturing operations and supply chain to meet our customer commitments to the greatest extent possible, while continuing to follow best practices recommended by relevant healthcare and governmental authorities, as this situation evolves.”

“As a recognized worldwide leader in the design, manufacture, and installation of laboratory, healthcare, and technical furniture products, we stand ready to support the vital and evermore important scientific and research community that will be responding to threats posed by this coronavirus.”

“We will continue to monitor the situation and follow the guidance from national and local governments, as well as the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and the World Health Organization.”
